

Workshop on Corporate Reporting: A means for Corporate Governance & Sustainability Reporting

Finance,
Accounting & Law

March 15 & 16, 2016

9:00am – 5:00pm

Venue: CEE@IBA, Karachi

OVERVIEW

The corporate sector in Pakistan has had its fair share of corporate failures, scams and scandals and numerous finance companies have deprived thousands of small investors of their life-savings. In the not so distant past, nationalized banks have written off billions of rupees by way of bad loans. These scams bear similarity to those happening across borders. The victim in most cases being the general public leads to a hue and cry over regulating the companies. Mere compliance with reporting regulations does not necessarily mean that you are reporting effectively. It is quite possible, in fact, for reporting to seem disconnected with the business strategy and for this to raise questions in the minds of stakeholders about the quality of management and governance. Addles takes us to wards corporate reporting. It is important for boards to think about the unintended consequences of what is said, and how it is said. The quality and clarity of reporting are critical for all businesses. Today the corporate world is even going beyond governance and financial reporting. Stakeholders' needs of corporate reporting are changing. Global social, environmental and human capital challenges have broadened the governance thinking from single bottom line financial performance to triple bottom line performance or the concept called 'Sustainability'. During the past few years the corporate reporting in Pakistan has experienced rapid development in the area of 'Sustainability' or 'Corporate Responsibility' reporting.
