

The background of the top half of the page features a dark blue and black gradient. Overlaid on this are several financial data visualizations: a white line graph showing fluctuations, a candlestick chart with white and grey bars, and several stacks of silver coins of varying heights. The lighting is dramatic, with a bright light source from the left creating highlights on the coins and the charts.

PROGRAM OVERVIEW

Value generation is the primary goal of every company, with financial numbers used to assess this goal. Business Executives make choices that affect the company's goal and their decisions, whether they realize it or not, are linked to the financial performance of the business. Unfortunately, the finance jargons are difficult to understand due to which executives remain uninformed about the consequences of their actions on financial results.

This program aims at bridging this gap through imparting the financial knowledge and an understanding of how decisions in all functional areas can impact the firm's financial performance and derive its growth.

Financial management is one of the most crucial components to support business continuity. Financial planning, management and governance is required by businesses at all stages of growth (from startups to SMEs, NPOs and listed/public sector companies) to successfully manage and run the business to achieve desired results. As the business grows, it requires proper financial plans and more funds to keep up with its growth plans. Therefore, it is important for business executives to learn to assess viability of new investments, identify the right sources of raising funds through equity or debt financing and apply tools for working capital management. Hence, every Business Executive needs to be aware about gimmicks and tricks of Financial Management to be able to add value to the organization.
